Kentucky Will Have Daylight Time, Thanks To Lt.-Gov. Wendell Ford

A bulletin reaching The News office Wednesday afternoon at presstime stated that "The Kentucky Senate killed a bill that would have exempted the State from daylight time", with the critical vote being cast by Lt.-Governor Wendell Ford.

The News joins Gov. Ford's thousands of other admirers in West Kentucky in thanking him for this action, which narrowly averted a serious time-crisis threatening this community.

Jottings from . . .

Jo's Notebook

Vanderbilt University: — The spotlight last weekend here was on parents, and every event on campus was designed to entertain them and show them a part of Vanderbilt life.

I debated a long time about going to my Saturday class, fearful that the parents of some of the students, (many much younger than I) would take a look at me strolling across the campus, textbooks in hand, and think I was some kind of a nut. You can take it from me, the decision to attend the classes was rewarding indeed.

Many of my classmates seemed to take a great deal of pride in introducing me to their parents. In spite of the fact that many of the visitors I met were Vanderbilt graduates, a goodly number of them expressed hope that someday they might be able to do what I am doing.

When I stop to contemplate the nature of such expressions I often revert to the modern vernacular by realizing it's no "big thing" to break with the traditional discipline that a middle-aged woman, having reared a family, is destined for some kind of intellectual limbo.

As long as I can remember I have worked to be a good newspaper editor. Some fifteen years ago, when the children were small, I applied for a Neiman Fellowship for a year's study at Harvard University. I was among the 20 finalists of the thousands who applied from the United States, its provinces and Alaska.

Failure to qualify for one of the 12 fellowships was explained to me by Ralph McGill, the eminent editor of the Atlanta Constitution when he said to me after the personal interview in St. Louis: "We want our Fellows to be completely relaxed and unencumbered to study, do research, and attend all of those functions necessary to the fulfillment of each individual's goals."

Today I know exactly what he meant!

Some people have asked, even been a little curious about, why I have concentrated so heavily on political science courses here at Vanderbilt. The answer is simple.

A newspaper's readers are its constituents. They cast their votes for it each time they buy it. To deny them the right of choice is as inimical to the proper process of democracy as to deny the right of choice in popular elections. I certainly agree wholeheartedly with the very crisp and poignant statement made by Rebecca West when she said:

"A community needs news for the same reason that a man needs eyes. It has to see where it is going."

A knowledge of political science gives the press the eyes to look at the face of authority from below, from among the governed, not the governing. The role of the press is to be "dangerous" to those who rule even when they rule with the best intentions.

It was one of the greatest newspapers in the world, the Times of London, that commented these significant words: "The press lives by disclosures."

Union Citizens Are Classmates!

And speaking of disclosures, I had an interesting pleasant one made last week when a charming and delightful young man came up to me before class and remarked:

"Isn't Fulton near Union City?"

"Ten miles," I answered proudly.

"I've been meaning to ask you this for a long time but do you know my uncle W. D. Bramham?" Well of course I do! W. D. is that friendly and inimitable individual with White-Ransom Funeral Home in Union City.

Bill Bramham is a native of Louisville, Ky. He attended the wedding of his first cousin in Union City a few years ago.

. . . Bob Nailling Tool

As if that wasn't enough pleasant news for one day, another source followed right on the spot. Bob Nailling, (Sam and Virginia's pride and joy of Union City) attends the same class. It was like old home week right there in Calhoun Hall.

"When I Left Office, I Left 60% Of My Budget Unspent", Says Ex-Gov. Breathitt

The current uproar generated in Frankfort over the request for a $2.5 billion budget by Republican Governor Louie Nunn, involving the imposition of additional taxes including a 5% sales tax, has provoked a sharp rebuttal from former-Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

In his statement this week, Breathitt seeks to set the record straight for those who would lay any blame for alleged overspending on the doorsteps of his administration, calling such action a "cheap and political maneuver."

An apparent example of targets for Breathitt's ire is a bimonthly Louisville newspaper, which this week stated that "Governor Nunn inherited a deficit of some $36 million when he assumed office."

This is the difference between the 1966-68 revenue and the appropriations made by the 1966 General Assembly.

The following letter was received by The News this week from Former Governor Breathitt, now returned to his home and law practice in Hopkinsville:

Statement by Edward T. Breathitt
Hopkinsville, Ky.

As one who has carried the burden of leadership in Kentucky's progress, I have no desire to make political capital at the expense of my successor, or to add to the difficulties he faces. But I think in fairness to my own administration, to the Democratic Party and to the people of Kentucky, I must express my disappointment and indeed my resentment at the efforts which are being made by the Nunn Administration to lay at my door and at the door of former Governor Combs the responsibility for the $250 million tax increase which Governor Nunn has requested for the coming biennium. When I left office, Kentucky's budget was balanced, both in the General Fund and in the Highway Fund. The $176 million bond issue which was voted by the people in 1965 was largely unspent.

The Governor's contingency fund contained $562,000 when I left office.

On December 11 (near the midpoint of this fiscal year as well as my last day as governor) $151,754,270.81 had been spent from the general fund, and $224,630,518.01 was left for Governor Nunn to spend in the last half of the year. In other words I spent forty percent in my half of the year and left him sixty percent to spend in his half!

When it became apparent that due to changing economic conditions which could not have been anticipated in 1966, revenues were not increasing as rapidly as expected, I did not leave this problem on the doorstep of the incoming Governor. I faced to the unpopular responsibility of reducing expenditures by a sum sufficient to balance the budget for the current fiscal year. This was an unpopular responsibility, and if I had been will-

News Editor Delegate To Meet In Lima, Peru

Mrs. Paul Westpheling, editor of the Fulton News and state co-chairman of the Kentucky Partners of the Alliance is among the delegates from thirty-three states and the District of Columbia who will travel to Lima, Peru, to meet their opposite numbers from thirty-four countries, states or areas in Latin America for the Third Annual Inter-American Conference of the Partners of the Alliance, March 31st to April 4th.

Mrs. Westpheling, currently on leave from the newspaper that she co-publishes with her husband, is a Ford Foundation Fellow at Vanderbilt University at Nashville. She was one of ten American journalists, and the only woman, selected to receive the award for a year's study in the courses of her choice to enhance the ideals of journalism and the goals of grass roots community relations.

Mr. Westpheling is planning to accompany his wife on the South American mission, which will include missions in Quito, Ecuador, Bogota, Colombia and other South American diplomatic centers.

Edward Marcus, National President of the Partners of the Alliance will head the American group going to Lima. Mr. Marcus, a dynamic national leader and famous merchandiser, attended the Fifth Annual International Banana Festival last year. He has demonstrated enthusiasm for the program in many vital areas both in American and the Latin-American countries.

The Partners of the Alliance were organized in 1964 to provide a structure whereby the private citizens of the Americans could originate and carry out programs of social and economic development through reciprocal action. The past three years of this concerted action have seen schools and hospitals built and provided with modern equipment; water conduits and roads constructed to remote villages; modern farming methods introduced, the instruction and exchange of both teachers and students, and business ventures ex-

New Dollar General Store Opens Friday, March 8 At 426 Lake Street

A new business firm has come to Fulton, and will have its "grand opening" Friday morning at its Lake Street location.

The Dollar General Stores, a Kentucky-based chain of general-merchandise type of stores, operating in twelve States, announce today the opening of their store Number 188 in Fulton Kentucky.

The opening is tomorrow, (Friday, March 8) at 426 Lake Street in the location formerly occupied by the W and L Dollar Store. The W & L Dollar Store was owned by Wendal and Louise Butts, whose stock and fixtures were purchased by the Dollar General Stores in a transaction completed here Monday afternoon.

The new firm, working day and night in preparation for its grand opening this Friday, has completely changed the interior of the store and all of its merchandise. The opening announcement, in two colors, will be found on the back page of the second section in today's paper. (An error in the original "mat" of this ad incorrectly stated the date as a week later; this error was not discovered until after the paper was printed . . . and the only suitable method of correcting it was "writing over" the red with a black "8", as you will note. The correct date is March 8th).

Dollar General Stores also operate stores in Union City, Murray and Mayfield, in this area.

Wake Up America! Our Danger In Vietnam Beyond Exaggeration

Sensationalism, with the wildest alarm bells at the midnight hour and woeful prophets shouting from the housetops, must now be the order of the day.

Can the country be aroused to an awareness of the deadly peril in which it stands? Not by speaking softly. Not by keeping cool. Not by wait-and-see, nor prayers, nor peace-mongering, nor understatement of our plight.

Exaggeration, very often a fault in journalism and political appeal, is now impossible. Anything short of hysterics would be justified to call the American people out of their lethargy and to jolt them into a mood that chooses life over death. It is a time for extravagance in language, for extremism is our emergency, for thinking the unthinkable at the top of our voices.

Today it is when, and not whether, concerning World War III. Today we are past debating the use of nuclear weapons, for it is a solemn fact that we can't win without them. Where to begin with the inventory of our military deficiencies?

The weekend warriors of the Air Reserve forces will find themselves "flying desks," because we have lost around 1,000 aircraft, including planes and helicopters, in Vietnam, and McNamara has not replaced them. The blackshoe Navy cannot put to sea in force, as the Senate Preparedness subcommittee has long ago reported. Hundreds of essential gadgets and thousands of man-hours in training are missing from our ships. The vessels just won't function without equipment and experience.

Soldiers for the Army are whirling through the revolving doors of rotation which takes them in and out of service so quickly that we have no professional ground force to cover the world's waterfront. Iron bombs, artillery shells and handgun bullets are admittedly in short supply. Simultaneous battles in Vietnam and Korea, to say nothing of Europe and the Caribbean, would find our men standing with silent weapons. Not one of these deficiency categories can be truthfully denied at the Pentagon. Every one of them can be documented by reports in possession of our congressional committees.

Only in the "nukes" — the nuclear ammunition and delivery systems — are we sufficient, are we superior to the enemy, are we safe from defeat in the field and on the seas.

In Europe, every conventional weapon — from hand grenade to landmine to cannon, to airborne bomb — has its atomic counterpart. I have this from a Senate Armed Services inspector, and it is common knowledge in the services.

Whether we have nuclear tactical weapons on the ground in Vietnam and Korea, I do not know, but I am told by four-star officers that the nukes of every caliber have been in readiness (Continued On Page Two) for several years in event the Chinese hordes march into Southeast Asia. As to H-bombs for the B52s, and for the undersea and underground missiles, there is no doubt that we are armed to sufficiency.

Our unreadiness in nukes exists only in our conditioned psychology. I recently rode behind a taxi driver who recounted how he'd been on Okinawa in August 1945, awaiting invasion of the Japanese Islands—when President Truman ordered the bomb.

"I always wanted to shake his hand," said the driver fervently.

Filthy Smut and Pornography Fills The Mails, And No Government Agency Will Seek To Stop It

Today's parents, vitally concerned with youthful "restlessness" trends all over the country and even in their own community, who are desperately trying to keep their own children on a straight and forward path toward intelligent adulthood, are yet confronted with a vicious and venomous mail campaign of pornography and smut.

The frequent mailings, invariably from a California area, come addressed to their teen-age children, and they come to the Fulton area as well as everywhere else. We have seen some of them. Under the guise of "Nature studies" or other titles, they contain pictures of nude young males and females, together with a solicitation from the firm that publishes this matter that "this is but a sample" ... "send $$$ and we will send you more pictures, films".

We know of irate parents who have appealed to the Postoffice department to prosecute these vicious firms, only to be told that the Postoffice cannot do anything about it.

We know of irate parents who have appealed to their senators and congressmen to put a stop to lawful circulation of this smut and pornography, only to be told that their request has been referred to the Postoffice Department, who, in turn, repeats that it cannot do anything about it.

Even the Director of the FBI, Mr. Hoover, suggests that "postal authorities should be advised" when a complaint is to be made, and we are simply astounded at his statement.

The plain fact seems to be that NO ONE YET KNOWN IN THE GOVERNMENT is willing to do anything about finding lawful means to prosecute a firm that mails lewd, pornographic pictures to a teen-ager, including the Director of the FBI. If one should step forward and volunteer to do so, we know of several local families that would like his name and address.

Except for the fact that he doesn't know what to do about it, Mr. Hoover DOES recognize this vicious problem, however, which he discusses in the current "FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin."

We are herewith reprinting his remarks on the subject, together with an appeal to someone, somewhere, to come forward with a method by which such outrageous mailings can be stopped and their culprits brought to a justifiable trial with a proper penalty.

Says Mr. Hoover in his current bulletin:

"THE PUBLICATION AND SALE of obscene material is BIG business in America today. Degenerate sex pictures and pornographic literature,

How many such veterans are there? How many parents of today's troops have thought it through? How many workaday citizens?

We are ripe for defeat in Asia, in Europe, in Latin America, upon our own shores eventually, primarily because there are too few on the streets like that forthright cabbie, too few in public office like Harry Truman, too few over-Americanized extremists who would rather shoot the works than live on our knees.

But no other reason would matter, given the circumstances which now exist, if the American people could somehow be made to understand that their danger is literally beyond exaggeration.

covertly peddled and sold in most cities and communities, net greedy smut merchants millions of dollars annually.

"It is impossible to estimate the amount of harm to impressionable teenagers and to assess the volume of sex crimes attributable to pornography, but its influence is extensive. Sexual violence is increasing at an alarming pace. Many parents are deeply concerned about conditions which involve young boys and girls in sex parties and illicit relations. While there is no official yardstick with which to measure accurately the reasons for increases in any criminal violation, we must face reality. Pornography, in all its forms, is one major cause of sex crimes, sexual aberrations, and perversions.

"Is our society becoming so wicked that we are turning from virtue and integrity to immorality and degradation? Are we becoming morally bankrupt and letting our principles of conduct and decency deteriorate? Are we forsaking the simple teachings of right over wrong and good over bad?

"Let us look about us. In the publishing, theatrical, and entertainment fields, are the good, enlightening, and educational qualities of their products being overshadowed by too much emphasis on obscenity, vulgarity, incest, and homosexuality? Many people believe this to be true. But the legitimate productions of these media are rather mild when compared with the "hard-core" pornography flooding the country in the forms of films, "playing" cards, "comic" books, paperback, and pictures. Such filth in the hands of young people and curious adolescents does untold damage and leads to disastrous consequences.

"Police officials who have discussed this critical problem with me unequivocally state that lewd and obscene material plays a motivating role in sexual violence. In case after case, the sex criminal has on his person or in his possession pornographic literature or pictures. Under these conditions, it is not surprising to note that forcible rape in 1966 increased 10 percent over the 1965 total, a violation occurring every 21 minutes. Since 1960, forcible rape has increased 50 percent.

"Obviously, all that is being done to combat the sale and traffic in obscene material in the Nation is not enough. Sound and workable laws are needed, and, where they do exist, they should be vigorously enforced. Since many courts seem to judge obscenity on the basis of the moral standards in the community, the public has a vital role in upgrading the level of community morality. When obscene material is discovered, it should be exposed and citizens should complain to proper authorities. When pornography is received in the mails, postal authorities should be advised. Citizens should come forward and cooperate in the prosecution of offenders.

"Obscene material is indeed evil, but it is not a necessary evil. If the illicit profits in pornography were replaced with stiff punishments for the filth purveyors, this evil would be brought under control. John Edgar Hoover, Director."

THE SIN OF OMISSION

It isn't the thing you do,
It's the thing you leave undone
That gives you a bit of heartache
At setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flowers you did not send,
Are your haunting ghosts at night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way;
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say;
The loving touch of the hand,
The gentle, winning tone
Which you had no time or thought for
With troubles enough of your own.

Those little acts of kindness
So easily out of mind,
Those chances to be angels
Which we poor mortals find -
They come in night and silence,
Each sad, reproachful wraith,
When hope is faint and flagging,
And a chill has fallen on faith.

For life is all too short,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion
That tarries until too late;
And it isn't the thing you do,
It's the thing you leave undone
Which gives you a bit of a heartache
At the setting of the sun.

THE OBJECTIVES OF LENT
SCRIPTURE READING
PHIL. 1:1-11; PHIL. 3:1-15
TEXT JOHN 21:15

"Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?" I THESS. 4:10 "We beseech you brethren, that ye increase more and more."

From early times the Lenten season has been a period preparatory to the celebration of Easter. The Christian church throughout the world consecrates this period to the deepening of the spiritual life and to the renewal of loyalty among its members. Many people give themselves to special acts of self-denial, prayer and meditation during these forty days and find a rich blessing in so doing. Representing, as Lent does, the final tragic weeks in the life of our Lord, it has a significant appeal, and Christian people generally feel drawn to make special use of the "means of grace" for the growth of their souls.

Have you met stretch fabric? It is a new member of the textile family, one you will enjoy knowing. This new member is woven stretch fabric. Garments made of stretch fabric are comfortable. They give when you move and bend. They resist wrinkling and go back to their original shape.

Sewing suggestions for constructing garments of stretch fabric are: (1) To prevent stretching while sewing, stay-stitch $\frac{1}{2}$ inch from raw edge. In seams where stretch is not wanted, such as shoulder seams, sew tape into the seam line. (2) Taper darts to a very fine point. (3) Use interfacing to stabilize areas such as the neckline. (4) Garments made of stretch fabrics usually are better not lined. (5) Use tailor chalk or tailor tacks for markings. (6) Place a small square of closely woven fabric under each buttonhole. (7) Hand baste zipper in by hand or machine. (8) A tailor's hem is a satisfactory finish for the hem. (9) Do not stretch or pull fabric while pressing. For more information contact your local Extension Office and request leaflet 302, titled "Fabric Tips - Stretch". —Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson

Get the "tray habit." Use a tray when setting or clearing the table. It will save time, steps and energy. Have a stack of trays on hand for use at a buffet luncheon or for the family's Sunday night supper; it will simplify your work, add to fun of the occasion, and to the convenience of those serving themselves. Rectangular trays are usually more convenient than round or oval ones - large trays hold more than small ones. —Mrs. Barletta Wrather

Everygreens and shrubs may be given a light pruning at this time, but prune just enough to shape the plants. Make a list of the plants needed to replace those that have died or are half-dead. This goes for evergreens, shrubs and trees. —Mrs. Maxine Griffin

If a fork is the only silver needed for a luncheon where should it be placed? If no knives are used, the forks are placed at the right in the place of the knives, because they will always be used in the right hand if there is no knife.

Where should the napkin be placed in a table setting? The napkins are placed at the left of the works with the hem and selvedge parallel to the edge of the table and the forks. The lower right-hand corner is the open corner. —Miss Pat

Small Rooms Made Larger

Rooms and houses don't shrink - it's just that our needs grow greater - along with our possessions. There are ways you can make your rooms seem larger:

- (1) Make your floor coverings, draperies, and walls (including woodwork) one color, definitely a light one.
- (2) Cover your furniture to blend, not contrast.
- (3) Use a mirror in your room to double the size of an area - it will add interest as well as "size" and may add light if it reflects a window or light fixture.
- (4) A landscape, seascape, or wallpaper can give depth to a room.

This is the time for income tax blues. About this time of year families decide that they will keep better records another year.

A family spending plan can save time, temper and money for family members. Family accounts show where your family income goes, shows up leaks and where money is being used unwisely.

Do you know where your money goes? Could you list how your money was spent last month? Family business is big business. How good a business person are you? Do you have a plan for spending?

Your family living records need not be too detailed; simple records may serve your purpose well enough. —Miss Irma Hamilton

What are Vitamins? How do they work?

Vitamins are chemical compounds that occur in foods in minute amounts and must be supplied to the body for normal functioning and development. Vitamins take part in chemical reactions that release energy from foods for use by the body, promote normal growth to different kinds of tissues, and are essential to the proper functioning of nerves and muscle. Research is constantly adding knowledge of the many capacities in which various vitamins function. —Miss Frances Hanes

FIRST STEAMER

The steamboat "New Orleans," first successful steamer on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, made its first run to New Orleans from Louisville in October, 1811.

"GUARDIAN OF THE WILDERNESS ROAD" was the term used by many early Kentucky settlers when they referred to the William Whitley House near Crab Orchard. Constructed between 1787 and 1794, the structure was the first brick home built west of the Alleghenies, and was used as a fort and as a social and civic center of that period. Restored and authentically furnished, the structure is operated as a shrine by the State Parks Department and is open year round to the public.

"Guardian of the Wilderness Road" was the descriptive term used by many Kentucky settlers when they referred to William Whitley House near Crab Orchard, now a State Shrine.

The structure was built by Colonel William Whitley, famous Kentucky pioneer leader and Indian fighter, between 1787 and 1794. It has the distinction of being the first brick home built west of the Allegheny Mountains.

First used as a fort, the three story home boasted walls two-feet thick. It has been completely restored and preserved as one of the most historic landmarks of the legendary Wilderness Road region. It is authentically furnished and contains many unusual features, such as secret hiding places for women and children, very high first floor windows which were designed to prevent marauders from shooting directly into the building, and heavy, hand-carved wooden doors with an inner lining of iron which served as an added protection against Indian attack.

Light colored brick were laid in such a manner as to form the initials "WW" on the front of the house, and "EW" (for Whitley's wife, Esther) on the back wall. Over the mantel in the parlor are 13 panels representing the original 13 colonies. Each step of the main stairway is decorated with a carving of an eagle holding an olive branch.

The center of religious, political and social life of the Wilderness Road region, the Whitley House was a gathering place for such figures as Daniel Boone, George Rogers Clark and Isaac Shelby, Kentucky's first governor.

Behind the house was the first oval horse-racing track in America. Whitley began the American method of racing horses in a counter-clockwise fashion—as opposed to European tracks, which race clockwise.

More than 50,800 persons visited William Whitley House during 1967, according to State Parks Commissioner Robert E. Gable. The shrine, managed by Mrs. Grace Wilson of Crab Orchard, is located just off U. S. Highway 150, between Stanford and Crab Orchard. It is open year-round, but closed each Monday except during the months of June, July, and August. The admission charge is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. A picnic area is located near the house.

There's A Diet To Fit Your Need

The American public is now well aware that any effective weight control program must include dieting.

Hundreds—perhaps thousands—of different diets are presented to us. Most are billed as a "sure-fire" means of trimming off excess pounds.

The American Medical Association's home health book, "Today's Health Guide," points out that weight can be lost on virtually any dietary plan, good or bad, that ensures a calorie intake less than energy used. It is apparent, however, that many diets are only temporarily effective and do not promote the fundamental purpose of permanent weight loss.

Reducing diets, ideal weight charts, calorie-counting tables are available almost everywhere. It is our purpose here to discuss briefly some principles of the good reducing diet.

The diet should be individualized in harmony with income, national origins, religious principles and personal circumstances.

The diet should be practical, consistent with work patterns and other everyday obligations and responsibilities.

- * The diet should be balanced, and in conformity with good nutritional practice.
- * The diet should be a pattern for life, not just for the period of weight reduction.

Generally, physicians do not recommend the crash diet in routine weight reduction. Instead, they are more likely to prescribe a diet aimed at a gradual weight reduction over several months.

It usually isn't necessary to go hungry, while dieting. Your physician can help you work out a diet that will be satisfying and at the same time permit you to lose weight.

Westvaco Offers Matching Tree Seedling Program In Purchase Area

West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, through its office at Wickliffe, Ky., is offering to match pine seedlings up to 10,000 with landowners in the 13 counties of Western Kentucky.

For each seedling a landowner buys from the Kentucky Division of Forestry, Westvaco will match the order on a one-for-one basis. Any individual landowner with plantable land is eligible for this program.

The purpose of the program is to encourage the planting of more pine in the counties where Westvaco expects to be buying wood when the new mill is completed.

The Company will also furnish 1,000 free seedlings to any member of 4-H, FFA, Boy or Girl Scouts, or other organized youth group, provided the member is engaged in a tree planting project sponsored by the group.

Any school district wishing to start or expand a school forest can get up to 5,000 seedlings through the Company. It is not necessary for the students or schools to purchase seedlings to be eligible for the free seedlings.

Come April 1st Its "Tater Day" Up In Benton

The sweet potato started something big in Benton, Kentucky—something that's now a 125-year-old tradition called Tater Day. It began in 1843, when this fund-raising event marked the opening session of county court on the first Monday in April.

Everybody went to town that day to visit with neighbors and do a little swappin'. The seed sweet potato was a main item of trade, for it was scarce and valued in those parts. As the potato-trading continued through the years, the occasion came to be known as Tater Day.

Bentonians don't forget the plant that started it all. In the town's Court Square this April 1, the main feature will still be seed sweet potatoes sold off the back of a truck.

School's dismissed in city and county for the festivities, which include a pulling contest pitting horse against horse, swapping mules and all sorts of other items, talking and tale-spinning and side-walk selling. Citizens in old-time costumes and especially-spouted beards will mingle with folks from all over the U. S. who visit the small community to enjoy the day.

A Tater Day Queen will reign over all events, especially the big parade that starts at 10:00 a. m. She will be selected March 31 at 7:30 p. m. in the Benton Elementary School.

Tater Day coincides with April Fool's Day this year, so city slickers had better beware. They say that in olden days the inexperienced or unwary who didn't know the ins and outs of "trick tradin'" might go home with a non-hunting dog, a bawky mule or even a passel of sweet potatoes gone sour.

That's Tater Day in Benton, Ky.—a festive and friendly old custom that has survived virtually unchanged to the present day.

Ron Laird Named Chairman For 1968 Red Cross Fund Campaign

Ronald Laird, manager of Southern Bell Telephone Company in Fulton, has been named fund campaign chairman for the 1968 drive of the Fulton Chapter of the American Red Cross, according to announcement made by Bud Davis, chapter chairman. The Fulton Chapter includes rural areas, Cayce and Crutchfield.

As usual, March has been designated as Red Cross Month throughout the nation and Mr. Davis states that specific dates of the drive will be announced later.

On every battlefield, the Red Cross flag of mercy flies. In the tragedy and loneliness of war, the Red Cross is a familiar friend to our men and women in uniform, it is with them in Vietnam, in twenty-seven other nations where Americans serve, and in our bases at home.

The organization terms its campaign an "SOS" (Support Our Servicemen) appeal, with the slogan "Help Us Help."

Sudden deaths, serious illness or accidents sometimes leave families with nowhere to turn but to the Red Cross for help verifying information for the serviceman and his commander to use in making a decision on emergency leave. Slow mail delivery to a far-off military post often results in needless worry that a Red Cross health and welfare message can dispel.

In addition, in Fulton a Red Cross Volunteer program was started on March 1, 1967, and the 62 ladies who started out on that date have given 4,439-4/5 hours to the hospitals, nursing homes and the Fulton Health Department. Two more classes were trained later.

Due to conditions in Vietnam, demands on the Red Cross - and its financial needs - will be exceptionally heavy this year. Everyone is urged to contribute as generously as possible when called on.

Grain Storage, Care Is Meeting Topic

Mr. Harvey Hamilton, Agricultural Engineer from the University of Kentucky, will be in Clinton, Kentucky, on Wednesday, March 13th, for a grain and soybean farm storage meeting to be held in the Post Office Building, beginning at 10:00 a. m.

Mr. Hamilton will discuss several farm programs which are proving successful for on-the-farm grain storage, how to select a grain drying method, and other problems which farmers may have concerning farm storage and drying.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Laugh not aloud and to the disfiguring of the countenance, or without subject, only by custom.

— Francis Hawkins.

UNDER COVER AGENT!

Winter, summer, spring or fall, it's no longer necessary for ball players to work out on soggy fields than only a "mudder" could love! A new heavy industrial nylon encased in a special plastic coating which is waterproof - called Herculite - no protects the playing fields until game time.

In the early days of baseball and football, fans and fields alike were drenched regularly. To correct this safety hazard for players, Howard Ehrke - the lefthander who played with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics - decided to manufacture field covers in 1929. Those early covers were of heavy canvas that was difficult to handle and became waterlogged fast.

Today, the modern athlete plays on fields protected by Herculite which performs like a champ under all weather conditions. These strong, lightweight field covers are used to protect the home gridiron of the New York Giants - Yankee Stadium.

Sports Spotlight

The spotlight this month shines on Sam Pirtle, a Fulton High Junior. On the basketball court, Sam has shown to be the leading rebounder and one of the team's top scorers. Sam's jumping ability is by far his greatest asset. It enables him to pull down rebound after rebound. Sam's inside shooting allows him to do his share in collecting the points. Pirtle is also accurate at the charity line.

Besides playing basketball, Sam is an end on the football team. His speed and dexterity helped him to be a top receiver as split end. On defense he was a rugged defensive tackle.

Sam is also on the track team, as a high jumper.

April Draft Call May Include Some "Kennedy Husbands", Board States

Instructions are being issued to Kentucky Selective Service Boards to order for induction during the month of April those I-A registrants that are in the fourth selection of the order of call, Col. Taylor L. Davidson said today at Frankfort. He said, "Due to the increased manpower requirements it has become increasingly necessary to order those registrants for induction. The fourth order of selection includes those registrants who were married on or after February 10, 1963, and prior to August 26, 1965.

Registrants in the fourth selection of the order of call have commonly been referred to as "Kennedy Husbands" as President Kennedy issued an executive order creating the delay in sequence of call. This executive order was rescinded by President Johnson on August 26, 1965. Registrants married before February 10, 1963, and after August 26, 1965, who are non-fathers are considered the same as single registrants with respect to sequence of call.

The order of selection in Class I-A or I-A-O is determined by sequence. Sequence 1 through 4 are as follows:

1. Delinquents - Age 19 and older, with oldest selected first.
2. Volunteers - Age 17-25 in sequence in which they volunteer.
3. Nonvolunteers - Age 19-25, single or married after August 26, 1965 with the oldest first.
4. Nonvolunteers - Age 19-25, married on or before August 26, 1965, with the oldest selected first.

quence 1, 2 and 3. In April we will continue to induce registrants in these sequences plus the fourth selection of the order of call, "Col Davidson said.

Included in this large registration are students from 45 of the United States and more than 20 foreign countries.

Mr. Wilson, son of Ray Curtis Wilson Sr., is a junior majoring in health and physical education. Miss Warren, daughter of James H. Warren, is a senior majoring in health and physical education.

Soldier Spends Spare Time In Vietnam Teaching

A Frankfort man who earned a master's degree in diplomacy at the University of Kentucky is putting his academic experience to work as a soldier in Vietnam.

Lt. Tom Easterly, who recently returned to that country for a second tour of duty with the famed Green Berets, spent most of his spare time during his first tour teaching English to the children in an orphanage.

He describes his work in that Asian country only as "special work with the Army." He concluded his recent 30-day leave by taking a brief trip to Argentina.

The son of Ed Easterly, former head of the Associated Press Bureau in Frankfort, Lt. Easterly talked to journalism, civics and government classes at Franklin County High School during his visit home.

He told the high schoolers that he believes the war is being won by the Vietnamese soldiers, with the help of this country. He also offered his own reasons for U. S. involvement in the conflict.

The lieutenant has a younger brother, Jimmy, currently on assignment with the U. S. Air Force.

FRANKFORT CAPTURED

Frankfort, Kentucky, was the only capital of a non-seceding state to be captured by Confederate forces during the Civil War. The seizure by General Kirby Smith Sept. 3, 1862, marked the high point of the Southern effort to win Kentucky. The Confederates held the city until Oct. 4. The Union forces began their successful bombardment just as Richard Hawes was being installed as Confederate governor.

THE PARSON SPEAKS

Lenten season are suggested in these texts: loyalty and spiritual growth.

LOYALTY: We need supreme loyalty. We have our limited human loyalties, all of which are good: church, friends, work, country. But these lesser loyalties depend upon the loyalty over and above them all. Our loyalty is to a person and that person is Jesus Christ. Loyalty to Christ is the soil in which all other loyalties grow and bloom.

"Simon, lovest thou me?" Christ was eager to discover in Peter a loyalty upon which he could build his church and kingdom. Christ's appeal is always for personal allegiance to himself and his way of life for the world. "Come unto Me, follow me, learn of me, confess me, abide in me." He said all these things at one time or another and he still says them.

What happened to Paul on the way to Damascus? He got supreme loyalty to Christ. Later he wrote to the Colossians that Christ must "come to hold first place." When we observe Lent rightly, we put Christ at the center of our lives. What does that mean? It means we acknowledge his claim as our Lord and Master, that we proclaim his message, support the work of his church and incarnate his spirit in our lives.

SPIRITUAL GROWTH: "We beseech you, brethren," says Paul, "that you increase more and more. Here is the major objective of lent . . . we grow spiritually. It is conditioned by our loyalty to Christ. For spiritual growth, certain things have always been stressed in Lent.

1. SACRIFICE: This is not sacrifice for sacrifice sake. It is letting some things go, in order that we may have time and energy for better things. Someone has said, "Let us choose, not the easy way because it is easy, but the hard way because it leads upward, for beautiful are the feet of the climbers."

2. REPENTANCE: We need a sense of sin. We look into the face of the sorrowing and suffering God and how can we do otherwise than turn from our sins in godly sorrow?

3. SPIRITUAL EXERCISES: We are to nurse and nourish our religious lives and natures by a slow, regular and uninterrupted process of meditation and prayer. We are to set aside a definite period each day for this. Did not Jesus tell us to go into our closets and shut the door? The spiritual growth of Lent comes also through public worship. We have much to perplex us. The Psalmist in Psalms 73:16-17 had much distress about him. He had his severe problems. Do you remember what he said? "It was too painful for me, until I went into the sanctuary of God." For spiritual growth of a Christian, nothing can be substituted for coming to the sanctuary and being lost on "wonder, love and praise."

FARMERS GETTING THE FEVER

Obion County farmers are getting the fever to get started working in the fields. Marshall Baker at Mason Hall had two tractors going last week breaking ground and the soil was really working good. Soil sampling picked up for we mailed more soil samples to soil testing laboratory last week than we had mailed during all of January and first three weeks of February.

Lime trucks have been busy as farmers try to get lime spread before the ground gets soft again. Several fertilizer dealers have told me they had a good month during February, as farmers have been busy top-dressing wheat as well as some bulk spreading of fertilizer on pastures and row crop land.

GRADUATION NIGHT

The graduation night for the 1968 Obion County Farm Management School will be next Monday night, March 11, when 107 enrollees of the school and their wives will enjoy the Annual Banquet of the school. The attendance at the Farm School has been real good this year with the attendance averaging around 75 for the eight class sessions.

VALUE OF CLOVER IN A DAIRY PASTURE

Milking cows react in a very sensitive manner to the quality of pasture made available to them. High quality pastures seem to have a stimulating effect on milk production. One of the best stimulating plants that we have is Ladina clover.

In one experiment in a neighboring state where persistency of milk production was used as the standard of comparison it was found that cows on Orchard grass-Ladino had a two-year average persistency of 95.8 percent compared to those cows on Fescue-Ladino at 87.5 percent. Cows grazing a Bluegrass-Ladino mixture showed a persistency of 87.0 percent while those on straight Ky. 31 Fescue was a rather low 76.6 percent. (Persistency measurements were calculated as a ratio of the amount of milk produced during the fourth week of a test period compared to production during the week just prior to start of test period.) These persistency percentages show the great advantage of clover in the pasture, regardless of the type of grass in the mixture, when compared to a pasture of pure fescue.

In a Tennessee study, when an Orchard grass-clover mixture was compared to a dry-lot feeding plan, it was found that cows produced 3.2 pounds milk more per cow per day on the pasture containing 50 percent clover. When the content of clover in these pastures dropped to six percent (by actual plant species count) the advantage to the pasture over the dry-lot plan dropped to 1.2 pounds of milk per cow per day.
